

Mayor Smith then recognized Ralph Taylor who has asked to be on the agenda. He spoke to the Board in regard to a parcel of property he owns on Crabtree Street at the entrance to the former Fentress Industries property. He said there was a discrepancy between his deed and the Tax Map.

Mayor Smith, Public Works Director Steve McCoy, and Alderman Corwin Brown are to meet with Mr. Taylor on Tuesday to try to resolve the matter.

Keith "Groundhog" Conatser addressed the Board and stated he had spoken to them before about the dangerous intersection at the corner of Clark Avenue and McGhee Street, where vegetation was blocking the view.

Mayor Smith said he went to see the owner on several occasions and she was not at home. He said he and Building Inspector Bob Lane would look into this matter on Tuesday.

State Representative Kelly Keisling, who was present at the meeting, commended the City for taking action to implement a pay scale. He said, "It gives you some uniformity, and I commend you for taking this action. It brings you in line with other cities your size and kind. I would also like to say that I am honored to serve the citizens of Jamestown and Fentress County."

With no further business, on a motion by Charles Cooper, seconded by Gene Holt, the Board voted to adjourn.
